Raffi Tarkhanian is a Lebanese Interior Designer - Scenographer.

He holds an MA degree in Interior Design having graduated, with distinction, from USEK University in 2002.

In the year 2000, he co-founded doonbeytdesign with his brother, Vicken Tarkhanian.

Raffi is the recipient of several renowned awards including the International Property Awards in London and the Arshile Gorky Award in Armenia.

Raffi is a member in the Lebanon Affiliate Representative of the Pan-Armenian Association of Architects and Engineers (PAAAE) and an Executive Committee member of the Armenian Genocide Orphans Aram Bezikian Museum, located in Byblos, Lebanon. He also serves as an active jury member in the assessment of final interior architecture projects at USEK University.

Raffi currently acts as a client representative and advisor for Interior Designing in several internationally reputable companies.

He is committed to staying updated with the latest trends and technological advancements in Interior Design through a yearly participation in internationally renowned fairs and seminars including ones in Milan, Stockholm, and Dubai.

Within his work, Raffi is given the nickname of “organized chaos,” for his determined passion for design allows him to explore the challenges of materializing extreme innovative concepts. He has a refined eye for design and follows an innate inspiration to create interiors that are timeless yet attentive to detail.

Raffi also has a personal interest in projects that possess spiritual and human values such as designing Sacred Spaces, Museums, and Memorials. He is keen on capturing emotions that come from a poetic vision of the world and transforming them into distinctive spaces that emanate a sense of belonging.
